		25)
•	In regard to France, the present regims believes the socialist faction within the French government is making sensiderable progress. The Bulgarian people believe that the French are sware of the fact that there is nothing in common between communism and socialism and that the socialist leaders in France today are well aware of the danger the communist party represents in the country. They believe that the French socialists have learned a lesson from the way the Bulgarian socialists have been treated by the communists since 1947. Bulgarian socialist leaders such as Kosta; LULTSCHEV, aged seventy-five, and Dr. Peter/DERTLIEV, aged fify, are still in prison. Krustu PAST CHOV and many other socialist leaders have died in prison, dying as martyrs for true socialism.
•	The Bulgarian people have a great sympathy for Marshal Tito because of the independence he has shown vie-acris Russia. They homestly hope for a Balkan Federation which will save them from their present situation. The peasants, particularly believe that a Balkan Federation will mean the end of the kolkhoz.
•	Allied Radio Broadcasts. The Bulgarian people consider the French radio the most interesting from the news point of view, although it must be said that their broadcasts are nearly always jammed to the point where they are unintelligible. The cice of America is also heavily jammed but it is generally possible to hear the beginnings of the broadcasts. In regard to their quality, particularly from a political point of view, they are not considered sufficiently serious to make a great impression in Bulgaria. It is evident that the news editors do not know how to use the facts at their disposal and the programs do not suit the preference of the Bulgarian listeners. The one exception is possibly the lectures on health given by Dr. ZDRAVCCV once a week.  Of all the broadcasts, the Bulgarian people prefer to listen to those of the BBC, and not only in the Bulgarian language.	25)
Total P	Twen communists in the regime listen to BBC regularly. When people have no radio of their own, they generally try to visit their most trusted friends at the hours of broadcasts. They find the quality of BBC infinitely superior to that of Voice of America. It is not an emaggeration to say that, thanks to the BBC, the political prepaganda spread by the communist regime is to a great measure deflated. Of course, BBC Bulgarian breadcasts also could be improved in quality but its errors are few. It is a great mistake that the excellent American fereign policy turneds the emalayed nations is not explained more fully to the people behind the Iron Curtain through the Voice of America. Its messages generally lack the reality which is necessary today to be effective on the Bulgarian people.
	The Fatherland Front which the regime claims to be a "voluntary organization" is in fact, due to the privileges which it offers its members, the entree to any kind of a decent life within the country. To find a job, to enter the university, to receive anything but the most basic necessities	25) 25) of existence, it is necessary to join this organization. It goes without saying that the organization is entirely dominated by the communists. Nectically had been not one dares raise any subject which might be frowned aron by the regime. The meetings consist only of communist speakers. The audience generally talks amongst themselves, sleeps, and just waits until the end of the meeting. The Fatherland Front is used as a means to mobilize the masses for various demonstrations and manifestations. The Union of Dimitrov Years is another so-called "voluntary organization." Its main purpose is to educate the youth in communist ideals and teachings. It is nearly indispendent for a young person to belong to this organization in order to complete his schooling and, afterwards, obtain work in line with his training. Minety-first percent of its members consider the entire organization a joke, but it is publicly presented by the regime as a free, sincere expression on the part of the youth to learn the communists principles as laid down by the leaders.
	Committee of the commit

- 19. DOSO. The DOSO, the voluntary erganization for defense, comprises nearly the entire membership of the Fatherland Front, the Union of Dimitrov Youth, and various other front erganizations. It is a semi-military organization but its members are only instructed in military tactics. Membership in this organization is obligatory for all high school and university students, both male and female. There are permanent sections of the DOSO for air defense and recently there has been added a section for atomic defense.
- Scorts Activities. Various sports organisations have been created by the revenuent in order that the youth and people up to fifty years of age train and keep themselves physically fit in case of war or emergency. The leading scorts teams, however, are all professional and their members enjoy exceptional educational opportunities and similar privileges. The regime compiders that sports activities are one of the principal means for disseminating communist propagands.
- The Army. The Bulgarian Army is formed by a eadre of the most reliable younger elements in the country. Young men of draft age whose allegiance to the regime is particularly in don't are assigned to labor groups rather that the regular army. Army discipline is exceedingly strict and modeled after that of the Soviet Union. The majority of the officers are former 1 horses and peasants with little education. They are urged to attend special educational courses organized within the army. Several months ago (probable early spring) there was a partial demobilization, with about 18,000 officers and men being discharged. At the time, an order from the government was sent around to all the ministries stipulating that no vacancies be filled until all the demobilized officers of this group had found jobs. This is indicative of the serieus unemployment situation, which currently exists in Bulgaria.

Economic Conditions. Prebably the most striking example of the failure of the communist regime is the lamentable economic situation in the country. The average daily pay of a worker is 15 leva. According to a survey made by the trustees of the Dimitrov Youth of the Perlevets section under D. BLACCYEV, a rinimum of 1,200 leva per menth was necessary to support an unmarried worker in an ordinary manner. The standard of living may be judged from the following facts: There has been little change in prices since before the war-However, at that time a modest government employee with a salary of 1200-1600 leva was able to live comfortably, educate his children, and save for a small home. It is true that at that time there were certain extra incomes from private property, extra work, etc. Pimitar R...., an eld municipal employee of the city government of Sofia, told me that before the war, he was able to increase his salary approximately one-third from outside work and accounting. Such was the case with most affice werkers, although they had satisfactory salaries from their employment. Various outside work would permit the worker to pay for health insurance and a modest vacation for himself and family. In case of unemployment, he was able to obtain from one-third to one-half of his malary as a dole. He worked freely and was not obliged to fulfill nerms which are today ecustantly being raised. Today the workers are not allowed to strike nor do they receive any financial assistance when unemployed. They have a vacation of only fourteen days annually and only workers with five years or more of service obtain sickness benefits of 100 percent of their salary. The worker is not permitted to change jobs at will. It was my daily experience to hear from mothers, workers, policemen, office employees, etc. that they starved, that their children degenerated because of lack of money to buy feed, etc.

23. At the time of the detente in the Seviet Union, the Central Committee of the Bulgarian Communist Party instructed the lower communist organizations to listen to the complaints of their members and forward these complaints to the higher party headquarters. Members were invited to state frankly how they live, what they feel, and what they want. Later, several communists told me that the complaints regarding the miseries in which the Bulgarian people live due to abuses in bureaucracy and management were unbelievable. Pobri TERPENHEVA former minister and member of the Contral Committee, as well as Entoho STAJKOV, now secretary of the party and member of the Sentral Committee, acknowledge that after the last eight years of the communist regime, the party still does not have the support of the people, that this to a great extent is the fault of the party members who have neglected the material needs of the people and to a great extent, have divorced themselves from the people. meetings of the communist organization of Bulgarian writers, the accusations against the party leaders were severe. The opinion of the writers was nearly unanimous that the famine and misery existing in the country today was the to the communist leadership. After Russia spoke out against the "oult of the individual", open criticism against party leaders was held on all sides. In the past this type of criticism would have resulted in immediate arrests. Last winter a worker from the 9th of September Shoe Factory who took the local party secretary at his word when he asked for criticism, pointed out various abuses of power in the shoe factory. At the end of the meeting he was taken by the security forces and received a sentence of five years

25X1 25X1 imprisonment for attempting to found: discontent among the workers, The seriousness of the economic condition in Bulgaria may be judged from recent statement by YUGOV at a meeting of the Central Committee. 25X1 YUGOV said, "Until now it was 25X1 inadmissible to speak of undaployment in our country but we must acknowledge that in the larger cities there is ecusiderable unemployment and it is the duty of the government to find work for these peeple." In the past the regime has practically ignored the unemployment problem. There are offices for registering the unemployed but their official name is "Office for the distribution of the working forces. These offices are constantly filled with unemployed people, some of when weit months for any type of temperary job. If work is found for them, it is generally in a line altogether different from that of their elecen prefession. The number of unemployed is not known for certain. Y0007 has admitted that it is 50,000 in Sofia, wile according to other figures, it is much higher - between 90,000 and 100,000. 25X1 25. the average per capita 25X1 income of peasants in Bulgaria 25X1 peasant makes 1.20 leve a day, in addition to a certain amount of farm products which he receives for his work. This is the reason that today the farms are worked mainly by women, eld men, and children. The youth gravitates towards the cities where they hope to obtain employment in factories, mines, pensent families who, although they had economic difficulties, always had yogart in the house, were eto. Before the war 25X1 harpy, and the children were content to remain on the farms. 25X1 25X1 The miserable conditions of collective farm life have resulted in the complete failure of the regime's agrarian policies. There are no longer enough people on the farms to cultivate the earth properly. 25X1 first-class railway technician was about 700 leva per month. It is impossible for him to support his wife and two children on this salary. In February of 1956 a group of approximately 600 men and women met in one of the reoms of the Sofia railway station. The reason for this meeting was that they had 25X1

been informed of an increase in the norms for the personnel paid by the kilometer and that there was no corresponding increase in their salary. After much discussion, it was decided that the workers would not move a train from Sofia unless the Minister of Transportation himself appeared at the meeting. Thirty minutes later, the Minister appeared and negotiations were begun. He urged that the workers eaerifies a little more for the har these of their children. A locamotive firemen eried out, "Comrade Minister, when I started working here I weighed 80 kilos; now I weigh only 50. Look at what I have for lunch - a small piece of bread and some leeks. On this nurture I must showel seel for 250 kilometers. At the same time look at wourself; you can't see your feet for your stomach, and then look at wear clothes. When will there be an end of this starving and misery for us and for our children?" Gradually the criticism of this worker was taken or by the others until all present were shouting at the "inister." It order to leave the hall safely, the Minister made some vague promises and the man returned to work. Two days later, after many arrests had been made, a second meeting took place and the men refused to work before the men arrested were released.

Bulgaria. These so-called reductions were even broadcast by BBC in Bulgaria. It is the general opinion of the mere intelligent Bulgarians that these reductions in prices were but a maneuver on the part of the communist regime. First of all, immediately preceding the reductions the prices were gradually rising. After the reductions, the prices were the same as they were before the increase took place. Another practice of the regime is to announce reductions in the prices but then two or three weeks later to raise the prices of the goods back to their fermer levels. This is explained to the public by pointing out that the quality of the merchandise is superior and therefore should cost more. In at least 75 percent of the cases where reductions are made for certain merchandise, they rise again to their previous level within a few weeks. The amnouncement of price reductions may to a certain extent still complaints of the workers but it is of short

After the 20th Congress of the CFR, even Bulgarian communists in responsible positions began open criticism of the economic chaos in the country. They respected the Soviet criticism of Stalin as a sign that all criticism would be tolerated in Bulgaria. Lower scholen communists openly discussed their criticism against the communist leaders for telerating financial aboses of all kinds. High party officials are deeply concerned with this criticism by the lower scholens and consider it a serious threat to the regime. Arother troof of this is that the Eulgarian regime itself has acknowledged that many salaries are too low and pensions inadequate. This declaration on the part of the government was made even after the recent reductions in prices. Families with any monetary or material savings have exhaused their reserves and in order to make ends meet have for the past few years been selling household furnishings and personal items.

POWERFUTIAL .

The main reasons for these dire economic conditions are as follows:

u. Soviet Colonialism. The entire Bulgarian economy is geared to the cents of the Soviet Union. Prices the Soviet Union pays for various of are low but the exact since are kept secret by the government for fear of criticism on the part of the population. The Bulgarian-Serias commercial organisations were run entirely in favor of the Soviet into. Although they are now liquidated, the damage they have done still remains. A leading Bulgarian official of one of these organizations told me that through these joint organizations, the Russians laid hands on nearly all German reparations destined for Fulgaria. Today the Russians still control exploitation of the uranium mines of Caphove about 30 or 40 kilemeters from Sofia. A new uranium mine was discovered not long ago near the Eurile railway station 15 kilometers north of Sofia. this new mine is larger and richer in uranium than Bouhove. This mine is also exploited by the Russians but with Bulgarian laborers.

- b. The low quality of Soviet goods which are sent to Bulgaria. This shoddy material has disappointed all Bulgarian technicians. It is said that many of the machine tools are already broken down before they even read Bulgaria after being transported from across the Black Sea and then by rail.
- c. The faulty economy of the Seviet regime itself.
- d. Corruption in the various ministries.
- e. The bureaucracy which stifles initiative.
- . Passive resistance on the part of nearly the entire population.

The scientific fields in Sulgaria are under the complete domination of the Societ Union. A Bulgarian author is not even permitted to cite Negler scientists as references. This may be done in the negative sense opener. No one is allowed to undertake studies in the West. All courses and specializations are made in Bussia and to a lesser extent in the ot end from Curtain countries. Scholarships, etc. are granted by the government only to those who are known to be sympathetic to the regime. The Eussau language is a compulsory study for the entire student population. All political and historical textbooks are printed under the direction of Bussian specialists and therefore written with a Russian bias. In spita of these propagands efforts directed against the youth, students still maintain a critical attitude toward Russia.
